RESEARCH & POSTGRADUATE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN (Education Meets Empowerment)

Objective: The Earn While You Learn initiative by the Department of Physics (2025–26) aimed to encourage students to develop skills while continuing their education. The program intended to promote financial independence, confidence, and practical exposure among students.

Report: The Department of Physics organized this program initiative to recognize and encourage students who actively balance academics with part-time earning opportunities. Around 11 students who were taking tuitions in music and in the regular academic school classes were identified and recognised.

Outcome: The initiative motivated students to explore productive ways to support their education and develop a sense of responsibility and independence. It also created awareness about the value of work experience alongside academic learning, thereby empowering students for their future careers.
